

Why do you need ISO 27001?

Achieving ISO 27001 certification shows that a business has:

- Protected information from getting into unauthorized hands
- Ensured information is accurate and can only be modified by authorized users
- Assessed the risks and mitigated the impact of a breach
- Been independently assessed to an international standard based on industry best practices

ISO 27001 certification demonstrates that you have identified the risks, assessed the implications and put in place systemized controls to limit any damage to the organization.

Benefits include:

- Increased reliability and security of systems and information
- Improved customer and business partner confidence
- Increased business resilience
- Alignment with customer requirements
- Improved management processes and integration with corporate risk strategies

Achieving ISO 27001 is not a guarantee that information breaches will never occur, however by having a robust system in place, risks will be reduced and disruption and costs kept to a minimum.

Benefits to Getting an ISO 27001 Certification

ISO 27001 is the only auditable international standard that defines the requirements of an ISMS (information security management system).
